12,000 Ohioans Join Walkout, But Effect Said Not Serious

COLUMBUS, April 7.—More than 12,000 Ohio Bell and Western Electric workers, along with 55,000 others throughout the nation, went out on strike early Monday.

Already plaguing the nation was a Western Union walkout.

The Ohio Bell strike coincided with similar walkouts in Michigan, Northern California, New Jersey and Nevada and was called at 6 a. m. by the CIO Communications Workers of America.

The Western Electric strike by the same union affected only about 400 installers and distribution workers in Ohio. Similar strikes were called in 42 other states.

Pickets were reported at most phone exchanges throughout Ohio.

Ohio Bell said except for "possible delay at times on some long distance calls," the strike would have little effect on service.

Of 1,840,000 Ohio Bell phones, 92 per cent are dial operated and will not be affected.

SUPERVISORY personnel were handling the long distance calls. The company advised long distance callers that they would get better service if they made the calls station-to-station.

During the peak 10:30-11 a. m. period, callers experienced brief delays in getting long distance operators to answer their dialing. Supervisors manning the lines advised callers they could handle only "urgent" calls.

Some areas of the state felt the Ohio Bell strike only indirectly. Largest of these areas are Cincinnati-Hamilton, served by Cincinnati.

Circleville's branch of the Ohio Consolidated was not affected by the strike, with a report of good service on long distance calls.

Ed Jury, manager of the local branch, pointed out "we may hit some points that we can't get through," but so far no tie-up has resulted. The local telephone companies are not affiliated with the Bell union.

OHIO SENATOR Robert A. Taft, a candidate for the GOP Presidential nomination, munches a sandwich at a Republican rally and box-supper held in his honor at Alton, Ill. More than 1,500 persons attended. Taft is making a stumping tour of the state in preparation for the primary to be held Tuesday.

McGranery Probe Slated

Senate OK May Be Slow In Coming

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Some senators are predicting that it may be some time before James P. McGranery, President Truman's newly-appointed attorney general, gets official Senate confirmation.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) called the Senate Judiciary Committee into closed-door session Monday to decide how it will handle the nomination.

Chairman McCarran, one of those who predicted confirmation may be delayed, has asked to see a "full FBI check" on McGranery that has been brought up to date.

Although FBI reports on government officials and employees normally are denied congressional committees, an exception has been made for the Senate Judiciary Committee chairman.

For years, he alone has been able to examine FBI reports on judges, U. S. attorneys, marshals and the attorneys general appointed by the President.

UNDER CUSTOMARY courtesy, the two Pennsylvania senators, Duff and Martin, both Republicans, have been asked to comment on the nominee from their state. They are allowed 10 days for this.

Duff told a reporter he would not oppose McGranery's appointment. He did not expand on his comment except to say "I know him very well." Martin was not immediately reached for comment.

President Truman announced selection of McGranery at the same time he announced the sudden resignation of J. Howard McGrath as attorney general, last Thursday.

McGrath a few hours earlier had fired Newbold Morris, independent New York Republican lawyer whom he had hired two months before as an assistant attorney general to lead a cleanup of corruption in government.

"I believe the President still believes in what I wanted to do, because I went over it with him step by step," Morris said Sunday.

"Down to the last moment that I knew," he said, "the President not only wanted a cleanup campaign but was behind me in my efforts."

During his two-month tenure, Morris said Mr. Truman showed "enthusiasm not only for my mission but for the methods which I told him I would employ to give to the people of the country the truth about misconduct in public office."

Illinois, Kentucky To Vote Next

Ike And Taft May See-Saw To Deadlock In Convention

CHICAGO, April 7.—With three months of the campaign to go, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower appear to be heading toward a possible deadlock at the Republican presidential nomination convention here in July.

Although fewer than one-fourth of the delegates have been chosen, a recent trend toward splitting state support between the two candidates indicates they are running the sort of race that may tie the national convention into knots.

Taft is expected, the Associated Press reports, to collect most of Illinois' 50 delegates in Tuesday's primary. If he wins the preferential test despite a write-in campaign for Eisenhower, there will be no doubt of his collecting the state's additional 10 nominating votes at an April 25 convention.

What he gets in Illinois and in a state convention Saturday in Kentucky could put Taft near the 200 mark in delegates by the week's end.

EISENHOWER apparently still will be below the 100 mark, although he seems likely to get the lion's share of Kansas' 22 in a Thursday convention and an uncertain number in Kentucky.

Taft might maintain his delegate lead for some time—especially since he probably will get most of Ohio's 56. But Eisenhower has the promise of most of New York's 96 votes in reserve and he probably will pick up most of New Jersey's 38 in an April 15 primary.

Some recent state convention balloting has indicated Republican politicians believe they have a horse race on their hands and some of them don't want to get their bets down too early.

Navy Bomber Makes Flight Across Pole

ANCHORAGE, April 7.—A Navy patrol bomber has landed at Thule Air Force Base in Northern Greenland after a flight over the North Pole, the Alaskan Air Command reported Monday.

It was not known here whether the ski-equipped bomber, carrying 12 men on the trail-blazing flight, had actually put down at the Pole, as planned. The plane was to refuel at Thule and fly back to Point Barrow, Alaska, headquarters of the Navy's "Operation Ski Jump."

The plane was one of the two P-2V Neptune bombers, each with 12 men aboard, which set out Saturday from Point Barrow to attempt the first landings in history on the strategic polar ice cap at the top of the world.

The two planes landed on "Ice Island T-3," several hundred miles short of the pole. Engine trouble forced one of the bombers to remain behind on the island.

Rear Adm. Edgar A. Cruise, commander of the Alaskan Sea Frontier, said a C-54 will fly a replacement engine and six Navy maintenance experts with specialized equipment to the downed Neptune. An Air Force C-47 will be used to evacuate the men as soon as possible.

It was the second major mishap of "Operation Ski Jump," the Navy's Arctic research project. Late last month a "flying laboratory" plane lost its landing gear on a takeoff from an ice floe 500 miles from the Pole. Nine men were marooned four days.

8 Cars Of Train Leave Tracks

ELWOOD, Ind., April 7.—A Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train broke in two near here Monday and two persons were injured as eight cars left the rails. About 25 others were bruised and shaken up.

The seven cars at the rear of the train broke away from the train four miles southeast of here and left the rails. The last car of the front section also left the rails. None turned over.

Of the Michigan group, 33 delegates are publicly unemployed, seven said they are for Eisenhower and six said they back Taft.

Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman who is chairman of the delegation, believes the Chicago convention will be "wide open" in the sense that neither major candidate can win a quick nomination.

Steel Strike Being Awaited

Walkout Expected Tuesday Midnight

NEW YORK, April 7.—Hopes the government can settle the steel wage dispute flickered Monday, like fires in the industry's blast furnaces being cooled before the strike deadline Tuesday midnight.

The Wage Stabilization Board chairman, Nathan Feinsinger, and two members of the board planned new meetings Monday with representatives of steel's "big six" and the CIO United Steelworkers.

But Feinsinger said Sunday night no definite time schedule had been set for the conferences. He indicated the government officials would meet with the two sides separately. Joint talks, he said, would be held if it "seems advisable."

Feinsinger met with union and industry representatives for several hours Sunday and later spoke cautiously of "gradual progress" towards a "better understanding" of each other's problems.

"IT IS TOO early, however," Feinsinger added, "to state whether or when the dispute would be settled." He stressed a strike would immediately affect national defense.

His cautious optimism was tempered by these immediate developments:

U. S. Steel Corp., President Benjamin F. Fairless asked the union to call off the strike; and the steel workers' president, Philip Murray, promptly said it was the industry, not the union, which was "forcing the strike." He said the union had postponed the walkout four times already.

In Pittsburgh and in nearby steel towns, there was the gloomy feeling that the strike cannot now be avoided.

Mills cooled their furnaces and closed their coal mines. Steel workers were holding on to their cash, and merchants reported an Easter buying slump.

FDR's Famous Scotty, Fala, Dies In Sleep

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Longtimers in the White House Secret Service are recalling stories about "The Informer."

That was their name for Fala, the perky little black scotty, close friend of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Fala was buried Sunday in the famous rose garden at Hyde Park, N. Y., near the grave of his master, whose side he seldom left in life.

Fala died in his sleep Saturday, two days short of his 12th birthday. He lived seven years, less a week, after his master's death.

To the Secret Service men, Fala was a delight and a chore and there are some who think he found it fun to complicate their jobs.

Mike Reilly, recounting his experiences in guarding Mr. Roosevelt, described Fala as "the most lovable ham on four feet."

And ham he was. He liked attention and he knew how to get it. He was the President's constant traveling companion, and he got his nickname, "The Informer," from the way he gave away the chief executive's presence on trips.

The Secret Service would be just as happy if a President didn't have an audience every place he went. But not Fala. He loved his public.

Midwest strength last week in Iowa when they walked away with 15 of the state's 26 delegates. But the Taft camp came back to take all of Idaho's 14.

THIS SEE-SAWING battle might possibly change if Eisenhower comes home from Paris and takes part in the campaign.

There were guesses that two million voters would take part in Tuesday's Illinois presidential preference (popularity) contest, the election of delegates to both major party conventions, and the nominating of party candidates for state and county office.

There are 4,818,000 registered voters. A record vote of 2,674,713 was cast in the 1936 primary. The 1942 total was 1,963,000.

Taft and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, toured the state last week and wound up their Illinois campaigns in Chicago. They are opposed on the Republican ballot only by Riley A. Bender, a politically unknown Chicago hotel man.

But supporters of Eisenhower have been pushing a campaign for write-in votes for the military head of NATO, who is in Europe. Gov. John D. Lodge of Connecticut last week made a speaking tour of downstate Illinois in Eisenhower's behalf.

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee is unopposed in the Democratic presidential primary. But a substantial write-in vote is expected for Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson whose name appears on the ballot only as an unopposed candidate for renomination for governor.

Herbert Irked By Hometown GOP Turndown

COLUMBUS, April 7.—Former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert blames "gang bossism" for the Cuyahoga County Republican Executive Committee's endorsement of his rival, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, for the GOP nomination for governor.

The committee endorsed Taft Saturday despite attempts by Herbert, a Cleveland, to win the recommendation for his comeback try for the governorship. Herbert declared:

"No explanations were offered as to why Tom Herbert shouldn't be considered or as to why Charles Taft alone should be recommended. In fact, neither George Bender or Paul Walter or any other member of the policy committee spoke one word in support of their report."

"This is the very kind of gang bossism which Charles Taft himself has so often decried. Never before in my career in Ohio politics have I ever seen a Republican county organization dominated in such a high-handed and ruthless manner."

Actually, however, a similar action was taken a few weeks ago by the Hamilton County (Cincinnati) GOP organization which shunned its hometown candidate, Taft—and Herbert, too—to put its blessing on the third Republican candidate, Roscoe Walcott of Columbus.

Doubledecker Bus Inspected By Columbus

COLUMBUS, April 7.—Two-wheeled in hand, imaginatively at least, hundreds of Columbusites hopped aboard a big English bus Sunday for a brisk rumble about town.

This transatlantic peek at somebody else's commuting problems was a project of the British Travel Association.

A caravan of three doubledackers—painted fire-engine red with jaunty advertising posters tacked about the sides—pulled into the Ohio capital during a 117-day tour of 46 American cities.

One impression of the ride: "It certainly gives you a dizzy feeling," said J. J. Zand, chairman of the Export-Import Club, squinting down from a second story seat on the bus. The ground lay 13 feet below.

The big fellows are 14 feet, six inches high, and 26 feet long. They've got right-hand drive, of course, and diesel engines good for 125 horsepower.

India Envoy And Stalin Talk, Call For Top Level Conference

MOSCOW, April 7.—A half-hour conversation between Prime Minister Stalin and India's ambassador to Moscow has produced a new call for the world's "top people" to meet in an attempt to settle major international problems.

"There is no outstanding problem now dividing the world which could not be settled with discussion and negotiation. Every effort should be made to get the top people together," said the Indian ambassador, Sir Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, after his conversation Saturday night with Stalin.

Stalin's interview with the Indian diplomat was viewed here as another in a series of important Soviet moves apparently aimed at fostering the hope that the divided world can settle its differences peacefully.

The Communist moves in this direction include:

1. Stalin's statement last week to a group of American newspaper editors and radio men that a third world war is no nearer than it was in 1949 or 1950 and that a meeting of the big power chiefs of state would be useful.

2. THE International Economic Conference now underway here at which M. V. Nesterov, president of Russia's Chamber of Commerce, said Saturday that the Soviet Union is ready for a vast expansion of trade with all countries.

3. The Russian proposal nearly a month ago that the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union get together to negotiate a peace treaty with a united Germany.

The Indian embassy said Sir Sarvapalli and Stalin had a "very frank discussion on many of the issues which are now agitating the world."

"It would be unwise to hang the door against every approach and give up the task as impossible," said the ambassador after the talk, adding, "no effort is wasted. And every effort should be made to get the top people together."

Though there was no immediately official reaction in the Western world to this latest suggestion for a top level conference, some non-Communist observers generally have considered the other recent Soviet moves as propaganda designed to arouse false hopes of peaceful Communist intentions in the West and to undermine the Western rearmament program.

Senators Hurl Verbal Blows During Parley

CLEVELAND, April 7.—Three U. S. senators tossed verbal bricks on such topics as filibusters, isolationism and "McCarthyism" at a session of the United Automobile Workers' Educational Conference here.

William Benton of Connecticut and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, both Democrats, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican, discussed the national government and public morality.

Benton, author of a measure to remove Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) from the Senate, declared "McCarthy is a world issue." He said that when he made a trip to Europe, people in Germany and Italy asked him whether McCarthy was going to take over the American government.

Morse said there was no place in America for "trial by accusation," referring to McCarthy's charges. Benton said filibusters had caused the "strangulation" of civil rights legislation and Humphrey added that "progress has been zero" in civil rights for that reason.

Morse termed isolationism a threat to the nation's security. He related that he was not considered a "good" Republican, because he had dissociated himself from the "reactionary" wing of the party.

Reds Promise Immunity For All UN POWs

Allies Insisting Prisoners Return Only Voluntarily

MUNSAN, April 7.—Communist radios Monday promised a peaceful welcome home to all Red prisoners returned by the United Nations Command during a truce in Korea, even if the prisoners say they have renounced Communism.

The broadcasts may have been an attempt to sound out the UN on a possible compromise on one of the three key issues blocking an armistice—voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, UN Command spokesman, said the command had no comment.

Negotiations on the prisoner exchange issue are in recess to give staff officers opportunity to develop additional revenues for agreement.

Sub-delegates considering the two other key issues met only seven minutes Monday but agreed to confer again Tuesday. Each side re-stated its position on the issue in the brief session.

THE ISSUES are: Whether Russia will help supervise a truce and whether the Reds may rebuild military airfields in North Korea during a truce. The UN Command disapproves both.

The Red broadcasts promising immunity to their returned prisoners were attributed to the "Korean People's armed forces and the Chinese People's Volunteers."

They were carried in the Korean language Sunday by the North Korean Pyongyang radio and in Chinese Monday by the Peiping radio.

They repeated the Red stand that all prisoners held by both sides should be released and repatriated in the event of an armistice.

The UN Command has insisted all along that no prisoner be returned against his will.

The Red broadcasts said the Communist armies want all their men back even though "some of our personnel interned have inscribed letters on their arms, have produced documents or have done similar acts" indicating they renounced Communism.

"We know full well," the broadcasts said, "that all such actions done while held have never been done of their free will, and also that all our people taken prisoner desire to return home."

"IN OUR statements given the other side we guaranteed that all our prisoners who returned will participate in works of peace with the help of their families and that their peaceful livelihood will be restored."

Rain and clouds over Korea Monday grounded United Nations Command warplanes and made life miserable for the foot soldier at the front.

Only a few reconnaissance planes took to the air.

On Sunday U. S. Sabrejet pilots reported they destroyed four Mig-15 Communist jets, probably destroyed two and damaged eight over Northwestern Korea. UN and Red patrols skirmished lightly on the muddy battlefield Monday morning.

Floods Menace Western Areas Of Nation

CHICAGO, April 7.—Considerably warmer weather came to a large part of Western United States Monday and it could hasten the winter's runoff in flood menaced portions of the Upper Missouri River watershed.

The Big Muddy and three of its tributaries already were on a rampage at widely scattered points. More than 1,300 persons have been driven from their homes. A 25-year-old man drowned in the flooding Cannonball River in Central North Dakota.

A Missouri tributary, the Big Sioux, damaged Sioux Falls, S. D., bursting out of its banks to engulf the airport and an adjoining housing project, driving out 300 families.

A Missouri river crest of 6.8 feet over flood stage flooded 250 homes in Bismarck, N. D., before moving downstream. The Milk River in Montana was out of its banks from Glacier National Park to its confluence with the Missouri more than 200 miles—and Army Engineers estimated it had flooded at least 125,000 acres of farm land.

'Red Problem' Brings Layoffs

HOLLYWOOD, April 7.—Some 100 employees of RKO Studio are looking around for new jobs. Their boss, Howard Hughes, placed them on a "leave of absence" status saying they are "innocent victims of the Communist problem in Hollywood."

Hughes said there are no pictures in production and work on four planned films has been discontinued. The shutdown stems from a dispute with screen writer Paul Jarrico. Hughes fired him because of Jarrico's refusal to tell a congressional committee whether he was a Communist.

fusal to accept union offers was "irresponsible."

He said the union demonstrated "a willingness to compromise" and suggested the case be taken before the Wage Stabilization Board, but the companies refused.

IN NEW YORK, C. C. Randolph, Western Electric personnel director, called the union's demand "an ultimatum" and said the company had negotiated in "good faith."

Submission of the case to the WSB, Randolph said, "violates the principles of sound collective bargaining."

The Western Union strike, now in its fifth day, is being carried on by the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union, which has disputed company claims of a back-to-work movement and service restoration between dozens of cities.

Ohio Bell owns about two-thirds of the phones in Ohio, but has service in only about 24 per cent of the state. The other areas are served by 171 independent companies which are not involved in the walkout.

The union is asking Ohio Bell for the maximum pay raise permissible under the WSB formula. It figures this to be about 21 cents hourly or $8.40 a week. Ohio Bell says it has offered the top allowed by the WSB. By its figuring, however, this ranges from $3 to $6 a week, depending on the job.

The company said this would bring the top rate for phone operators to $57.50 weekly and central office repairmen to $94.

H-Bomb Building Claimed Underway

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Sen. McMahon (D-Conn.) says the United States is building a hydrogen bomb and great progress has been made in atomic weapons development.

"Building a hydrogen bomb... is underway at the present time. He did not make it clear whether scientists are still working on blueprints, or have passed this and are in actual construction."

ROAD TO RESURRECTION

Illustrated by Alfred J. Buescher

And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast all them that sold and bought in the temple, and he threw the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves. And said unto them, It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves." Matthew 21:12, 13.

"And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard His parables, they perceived that He spake of them. But when they sought to lay hands on Him, they feared the multitude, because they took Him for a prophet." Matthew 21:45, 46.

Trying to trap Jesus into uttering blasphemy, some of the Pharisees and Herodians demanded of Him, "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" Realizing their purpose, Jesus displayed a coin and observed that the image and superscription on it were Caesar's, then added, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

CHILDREN PUT A HEAVY BURDEN ON RED CROSS BLOOD PROGRAM

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — Losing his first tooth is a proud event for an average small boy. But for a few—the hereditary bleeders, or hemophiliacs—loss of baby teeth is a menacing tragedy. That is one reason why, even the war in Korea should end tomorrow, there still would be a need for continuing need for blood throughout the nation. Another is blood needed by victims of other irregularities peculiar to children—Mediterranean anemia and erythroblastosis, which results in Rh babies.

A 12-year-old New York victim of Mediterranean, or Cooley's anemia points up the problem of this disease which strikes almost exclusively at the very young. He has been living on borrowed blood since he was seven months old. He has had more than 400 transfusions. As time goes on he will require more and more.

For years hospitals were forced to make emergency appeals through the press and radio when blood was needed for youngsters. Today this pressure has been taken off more than half the nation's hospitals through the Red Cross blood program.

Until medical science finds cures for these strange diseases, blood in quantity will be needed to keep victims alive.

Born of parents with incompatible Rh blood factors, this infant's only chance is complete blood exchange.

Young sufferers from Mediterranean anemia, hereditary blood malady, receive blood transfusions in a New York hospital.

Teen Tips

Do you really SEE yourself when you look in the mirror? Or do you see only your clothes? There's more to you than what you wear. Much more.

Next time you face your reflection, remember that you are planting your beauty seeds right now and the way you'll look the rest of your life depends greatly on the kind of care you give the REAL you right now. Check on these all-important points:

Your health—Do you look healthy? It's not smart to look pale, too thin, overweight or pimply. You body needs good, nourishing, well-balanced food and at least two full glasses of milk per day. Six glasses of water a day between meals rather than at mealtime. Eat some wholewheat bread, butter, fruit, green vegetables, meat or fish, egg and potato every day.

Your cleanliness—Do you look clean? This includes face, hair, hands, neck . . . every bit of you. No matter how busy you are, you can begin and end the day clean . . . and have an extra clean-up before a date or other special doings.

Your daintiness—Do you use a deodorant every day? Use a spray lotion or liquid that checks perspiration, if you like, or one of the soft white creams that prevents perspiration odor without stopping perspiration.

FARM MISSIONARIES

AMERICA AND Christian West have been sending religious and medical missionaries to foreign lands for many generations. They have combated ancient and harmful superstitions and instilled some of the public health practices of the West into foreign lands to their great advantage.

These missionaries have been immobilized in Russia's satellites, including China, in the determination of their masters to set those states up as gods. But medical and religious missionaries are quite active in other far places and to them is being added another type of American missionary—the agricultural envoy of good will.

America has many dedicated men today in Asia, Africa and elsewhere teaching modern methods of soil culture without much hope of personal material reward. The splendid theme is creeping into America literature and no doubt putting the dream of service into many other minds filled with farm skills.

Now Louis Bromfield, author who has been preaching land practice improvements to Americans for many years, says he may go to Brazil to give people there the benefit of his knowledge. Brazilian land practices trail those of this country by a century, he says. He contemplates establishment of a modern farm in Brazil to sow the seed of agricultural improvement.

Agricultural missionaries can contribute greatly to the well being of other peoples by teaching them to increase their food supplies.

Russians do not believe that 62,000,000 Americans are working. If they could see the pay checks, they wouldn't believe them, either.

Ceiling has been lifted on evaporated goat's milk, again proving that bureaucrats have their off days.

Politicians are less concerned about the state of the nation than they are about which states of the nation they can carry next November.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, April 7—President Truman's support of his Wage Stabilization Board's recommendations on steel wages and prices over the opposition of the departed and disgraced Charles E. Wilson furnished a premature unveiling of the new, pro-labor plank which he will try to force on the Democratic national convention and presidential nominee for the November campaign.

It will exceed in generosity and government control over new grants any program ever advanced or adopted by himself or Franklin D. Roosevelt in the last twenty years. It will match the many gains which the workers have obtained under labor and semi-socialist regimes abroad.

It will make labor a coequal partner with management and Washington in the conduct of the nation's economy.

Truman's willingness to sacrifice such an able and respected industrialist as Mr. Wilson because of labor's demand for his scalp, is not the only evidence of his unpunished but organized plan.

Governor and labor delegates to the annual Geneva assemblies of the International Labor Organization, a virtually unknown United Nations agency, have voted with communistic and socialist representatives for these same objectives for several years.

MILD — As a matter of fact, the Wage Stabilization Board's proposals for the steel industry, which generally fixes the pattern for all major industrial enterprises, are mild in comparison with Truman's undisclosed ideas. Had it not been for the president's more grandiose program awaiting presentation to the Democrats at Chicago, he would not have dared to toss Mr. Wilson overboard.

The WSB simply called for wage increases and fringe benefits totaling from an estimated 36 to 32 cents an hour, paid vacations and holidays, generous overtime and a closed shop. The last demand, of course, is far more important to labor than the more immediate, bread-and-butter benefits. It has been the Murray-Green, long-time objective.

These Days

It is so often suggested that columnists and editors be impartial, which generally means to be unhuman. For the human mind was made to think, to draw conclusions, to reach decisions. Impartiality is not a virtue; it is an escape from responsibility.

In the 1952 election, the issues are so important for the future not only of our country but of our civilization that impartiality can even be a weapon for our defeat. I saw the other day that the Governor of New Jersey, Alfred E. Driscoll, made a plea for unity, which is a lovely sounding word that dictators like Hitler and Stalin used as an opiate. Ferdinand and Isabella, back at the end of the fifteenth century in Spain, sought to enforce "unity" and destroyed a great empire.

Unity, in effect, means a total acknowledgment that free opinion is a vice. One accepts the dicta of those who rule, and kowtows to the superiority of the slogan over the debate.

Unfortunately for General Eisenhower's reputation, the mechanics of his campaign tried to achieve unity within the Republican Party by the blitz method. One argument tried on me was that Taft, by insisting upon running, was impairing the unity of the Republican Party. At the time this argument was presented, to it was added the horrifying prediction that if Taft did not withdraw, Truman would be elected.

I could not help asking why is it not equally true that because General Eisenhower insists upon running, he is preventing the ectoplasm of unity from enveloping Taft. After all, Taft is a Republican by registration, by voting record and by leadership in the party for many years, whereas Eisenhower is a newcomer whose assertion of party affiliation was never accompanied by a promise of party loyalty.

Actually, it is best for a political party when there are many candidates and a big fight. The more candidates, the wilder the fight, the better the opportunity of the people to assert themselves. Why suppress anyone who believes himself suited for the Presidency?

Harold Stassen, for instance, believes that he is suited to be President of the United States. In 1948, he developed an enormous following, particularly among young people, so that he was the most popular man as the Republican convention.

In 1952, Stassen's day had passed. His own state, Minnesota, gave Eisenhower such a write-in vote as to contest Stassen's leadership; in Wisconsin, he was snowed under altogether. These are his states, and having lost them, he has no position of leadership left.

Harold Stassen, on the basis of his 1948 reputation, was entitled to run in this year's primaries. He tested his strength and found it inadequate. He can now seek the Attorney General's office, although I am sure that he would prefer to be Secretary of State. Even for these jobs, his political claims are inadequate. Neither Taft nor Eisenhower needs him.

DIET AND HEALTH

Children's Digestive Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOMETIMES a child's digestive system cannot handle fats and carbohydrates, or starches, or both. This gives rise to a set of complaints known to doctors as the celiac syndrome. As a rule, it appears before the baby is a month old.

These children do not seem to get nourishment from the food they eat, and show signs of malnutrition, such as stunted growth. The abdomen appears large and swollen. The bowel movements are another important sign. These are bulky and have a very foul odor.

First Symptoms

The first symptoms are usually the foul, bulky movements, and a cough. As a rule, the child fails to gain weight normally, and frequent adjustments of the formula do not generally help.

A laboratory test can be made of the bowel movement to help identify this disease. Normally, the stool contains 20 to 25 per cent fat, but in this condition it may contain as much as 75 per cent.

In most cases of celiac disease, the proper treatments clear up the cough, and there is no serious infection of the lungs or bronchial tubes. If a child is fairly sick, it may be necessary for him to take fluids through a vein and to have blood transfusions and antibiotic drugs.

The right diet is very important in correcting this disturbance. It should contain liberal quantities of vitamins. Protein milk is correct for the formula or early diet, and the child can usually digest it most easily. Skimmed milk with banana powder is also very helpful. The older child may be fed scraped beef, tomato juice, mashed banana, cottage cheese, and gelatin.

As the child improves, meats, chicken, lamb, liver, and certain vegetables may be added and, finally, toast.

This condition may hang on for a number of years, but eventually almost all children with celiac disease get well. But several years may elapse before the child can eat a normal diet and grow in a completely normal way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

O. R.: My sister, who is thirteen years of age, has been developing a steady deafness in her right ear. Our doctor tells us there is no evidence of infection. What could be the cause?

Answer: Progressive deafness in young individuals in which there is no evidence of infection, may be due to a tumor or growth affecting the nerve to the ear.

It would be advisable for your sister to have an examination by a neurologist as soon as possible.

Try, Stop Me

A familiar bit of country lore in England concerns the time Queen Victoria was journeying to London for a crucial conference with her Prime Minister, Disraeli. Her train was racing through a dense fog when suddenly the engineer caught sight of a figure in black waving frantically in direct line of his headlight beam. He jammed on the brakes and the train came to a grinding halt not 50 yards from a spot where a swollen stream had carried away the railroad bridge. Another hundred yards would have meant irretrievable disaster!

The Queen asked to thank the mysterious stranger who had saved her life, but he had vanished completely. The bridge was repaired, and the train completed its journey to London. There, the engineer noticed that a big black moth lay dead in the engine's lamp, its wings outstretched. The reflection of this moth had been the "figure in black" which prevented the wreck! The final touch to the story is that the moth is now mounted on white silk and preserved in the Royal Museum.

So, the president figures that, if he can retain this support for his substitute candidate, sweep several farm states as he did in 1948, and get the organization vote, his party will be able to defeat anybody the GOP nominates.

(In view of this anything-for-the-labor-vote scheme, tomorrow's column will analyze the Eisenhower-Taft position on this important political problem.)

Pound Foolish

by ROBERT MOLLOY

SYNOPSIS
Henri Lemay, a frugal bachelor of Charleston, S. C., and his spinster sister, Heloise, had managed to send their orphaned niece, Leonie Hughes, through a fashionable school at Baltimore, Md. She is about to graduate and return home to them and to a more abundant life, perhaps. A long delayed family legacy may now in this year of 1914, be released to the Lemays. Henri is socially ambitious for his niece. He hopes and prays that she has outgrown attachment for Lincoln Calvert, a local boy grown to handsome manhood, an agricultural school graduate, ambitious to become a scientific farmer. The Calverts are Unionists and Henri despises them. Joseph Newman, a backwoods boy with a golden voice, is among Leonie's admirers. Eventually, he hopes to sing with the opera. But secretly Henri dreams the day when this cherished girl shall be taken from him in marriage, for he himself loves her passionately.

CHAPTER NINE
TWO hours after the hucksters had awakened him with their bawling, Henri was on his way to work. As usual, he encountered Mr. Bell, the rheumatic street sweeper, languidly propelling his brush, and listened to his daily complaint about his feet.

"I've tried everything, huh," he said dolefully. "I've tried washing my feet and not washing 'em, and I've soaked 'em in everything you could think of, and still they hurt. I wish I was as spry as you, Mr. Lemay."

Pleased to be thought so spry, Henri proceeded up Wentworth street. At the corner of Meeting he met Colonel Beecham.

Colonel Beecham was a tall, stately old man in a black frock coat and string tie and a battered Panama. He had a white beard and extremely blue eyes.

"Good-morning, Colonel," Henri said.

"Good-morning, Henri. Pleasant day."

"Very pleasant. I haven't seen you lately, Colonel."

"I've been under the doctor," said the Colonel. "I caught cold over on Edisto two weeks ago when I was bird-watching."

"Well, I'm getting a bit old," said the Colonel, his voice quavering the least bit. "Can't stand exposure the way I used to. But it was worth it. I was able to report," he said, swelling visibly with justifiable pride, "the very first visit to these shores—at least the very first ever recorded—of the Tennessee nuthatch."

"Congratulations," Henri said. "It will be recorded in the annals of the museum," Colonel Beecham said. "Every little discovery counts for the culture of our city, you know."

"True," Henri said. "Good-bye, Colonel." He touched his hat.

The sun was bright on East Bay, and before long, Henri knew, it would be beating into the Perfection Stationery company.

Henri made his way to the back of the store, climbed the stairway to the little office, changed into his mohair office jacket, and gave a final twist to his mustache. He took down a file of statements, opened one of the big ledgers, and began his week.

He knew that Mrs. Emmons would be late, and he had the first batch of statements ready for her when she arrived. He heard her loud laugh, her bustling footsteps, and there she was, fat, red-haired and noisy.

"How you this mornin', Mr. Lemay?"

"Good-morning, Mrs. Emmons. I'm fine, thank you."

"They say you're gonna be rich."

"I don't care to discuss it at present," Henri said.

Mrs. Emmons flung herself into her chair and began to rattle the typewriter in a way that suggested she was making up for lost time. She kept up a steady flow of conversation.

"You hear about the smallpox case on Church street, Mr. Lemay? People say Dr. White didn't have no business to let him stay there. The trouble with this town—if you got one of the old names they let you do anything. That Mr. What's-his-name on Church street, I don't care who he is, he ought to be in the pesthouse. How they goin' to keep smallpox from spreadin' when they let a man stay at a right on Church street with a case of it?"

Henri said he didn't know.

"I was talking to Colonel Calvert about it," said Mrs. Emmons. "He's a sweet old thing. He told me I reminded him of a tire among the ruins. My red hair, you know. People say all sorts of things about him, say he got a lot of wild ideas but I like him. You ever see that nephew of his, Lincoln's his name?"

The one that's been up North to that agricultural college? He's a heart-breaker, that boy. I bet he won't be single long."

"Indeed," Henri said, but the remark made him uneasy.

"No girl," said Mrs. Emmons flatly, "could possibly resist that boy." She rolled her eyes. "Well, here comes Mr. Peterson. I wish I didn't have to work today. These first few days of heat make me feel no-account."

"We Charlestonians," Henri said, hoping she would understand that he was estimating her, "never pay any attention to the warm weather. It always cools off when the breeze strikes in the afternoon."

"Maybe you're right," said Mrs. Emmons, "but I always sweat from May to September."

Overjoyed to escape, Henri went down the stairs to have the usual Monday morning talk with his employer.

Mr. Peterson was a large, bulky man in his fifties, with a drooping mustache, full red cheeks, bulbous eyes, a large gold chain, and a voice to match his proportions.

"You know we got to take inventory this month, Mr. Lemay," Peterson began. "The stock is piling up. Them ledgers there, for instance, is all too big. We got to ship some back or lower the price. And there's them fancy boxes of writin' paper catchin' dust. I got a scheme for them. We'll make a little display in the window, and alongside of each box we'll put an envelop and a sheet of paper with your writin' on 'em. Just half a dozen or so. Course, that'll spoil the boxes, but we kin mark 'em down twenty-five cents or so. Some people," Mr. Peterson added, "would just shut 'em up again and not say a word. But you been with me a good many years, Mr. Lemay, and you know no customer of mine ever been cheated."

"Very true," Henri said.

"I ain't a fool," said Mr. Peterson, "and I know people say I'm tight-fisted and graspin' and all that, but none of 'em kin say I ain't honest."

Henri nodded. He was so accustomed to this Monday morning reiteration of the Pharisee in the parable that he hardly listened to it.

"I always treated you well, Mr. Lemay, didn't I? Even when you left me that time and then found that it wasn't so easy for a new company to git business, eh?"

"I've always tried to show my appreciation, Mr. Peterson," Henri said, writing.

"What I always say, Mr. Lemay," said Mr. Peterson, accurately, "for he said it about once a day, 'is that honesty is the best policy.'"

"A good principle, Mr. Peterson," Henri said.

Mr. Peterson seemed to have exhausted his self-adulation for the time being. He asked Henri if he had any suggestions.

"No, I haven't," Henri said.

"Well, then, you just write the letters when you git a chance," Mr. Peterson instructed him. "Just a few samples."

Henri cleared his throat.

"You said it would be all right for me to leave Friday afternoon to go to my niece's graduation."

Mr. Peterson frowned.

"That leaves me all alone Friday afternoon and Saturday mornin'," he said, "but if I gave my word, Mr. Lemay, that's all there is to it. I know you'll make up the time. Mr. Lemay. Now, if you'll ask Mrs. Emmons to come down I got to dictate a few letters. You kin take my place out front until I finish."

Henri summoned Mrs. Emmons and took his place in the shop. There was not much to do except stand. The Perfection company catered to small business, of which there was a lot in Charleston, and small business seemed to be dormant most of the time. During his substitution for Mr. Peterson, Henri sold two dozen pen nibs, took an order for a hundred and fifty printed blotters, and handed out a bottle of indelible ink and a package of index cards.

Mr. Peterson came out to handle the rush, and Henri prepared to hear a resume of his correspondence, but Peterson said, "Some people think the city ought to buy the water works. You think so, Mr. Lemay?"

"I don't know," Henri replied, having greater affairs on his mind.

"They say the city tryin' to buy 'em. They say all this paving goin' to cost money and make the contractors rich."

"As far as I'm concerned," Henri said, "they can leave my street and sidewalk just the way they are."

Suggests Use Of Rug Pads

Life of rugs can be greatly increased by use of rug pads, says Anna Biebricher, extension home furnishings specialist at Ohio State university.

All pads or cushions of hair, jute, rubber, and combinations of cotton and paper prolong the life of rugs, said the specialist, but resilient pads are more effective than those which tend to become hard and compressed. Rubber, hair, or a combination of hair and jute are more expensive but have more resilience than pads made entirely of jute or a mixture of cotton and paper. Underlays should not be so thick, however, that doors cannot swing over them.

Since rug pads cost only a fraction of the rug price, Miss Biebricher suggested that the rug budget be planned to include one.

Rug pads should measure about one-half to one and one-half inches less than the rug on all sides, the amount depending upon how much the pad will spread with use. Buyers may get this information from their dealer at the time of purchase.

Program Is Arranged

An Easter program has been arranged by members of Order of Eastern Star for 8 p. m. Tuesday in chapter rooms of Masonic Temple. The Rev. Robert Weaver, pastor of Circleville First Methodist church, will be the speaker.

Vacuum cleaners may be used to clean rug pads once or twice a year, but the brush or beater should be removed to prevent tearing or disintegrating the pads. If no vacuum cleaner is available, a broom may be used if it is used with care.

Club To Meet

Solagna Garden Club will meet Friday at 2 p. m. in the home of Mrs. V. M. Klingensmith, Ashville Route 1. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Grace Alspaugh and Mrs. Clarence Rager. A plant exchange is planned for the meeting.

GUARDIANS OF NATION'S CASH CONVEY BILLION-PLUS DAILY

Two Brinks men transport bags of money from a bank while five others stand on guard nearby.

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — "Handling money is like handling wood!"

The man who said that ought to know. He is M. A. Goodspeed, manager of the Washington office of Brink's, Inc. His men transport up to $10 million a day in the nation's capital.

They carry a good part of the $360 billion a year handled by his company, a sum greatly exceeding the monumental national debt.

The sensational $1,500,000 robbery Jan. 17, 1950, of Brink's Boston office still stands as the greatest cash haul in American history. It is unsurpassed even by the recent $2,500,000 robbery of a Reno, Nev., multi-millionaire, Laverne V. Redfield. The Nevada thieves will probably net much less when, and if, they convert their loot into cash.

While the Brink's robbery was strictly cash, that in Reno was not. It consisted of some $300,000 in cash, including the large old-fashioned oversize bills which are difficult to convert; $50,000 to $100,000 in jewelry, and between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 in negotiable securities.

Goodspeed said that although the Boston robbery, still unsolved after two years of investigation, startled the entire country, it was the first time a Brink's office was robbed.

It was only the second time in Brink's 61-year history that thieves were able to pilfer the cash it carries for its customers.

In 1917 there occurred a successful armored car robbery. Goodspeed said: "The vice president's oldest brother had his head blown right off his shoulders out there in Chicago." He added that the criminals netted less than $5,000 for their efforts.

SOME OF the traditions of the Old West ride with the Brink's guards when they take their trucks out on assignment.

Goodspeed revealed that Brink's pays its men $1,000 for dead bandits and $500 for live ones. Last July the Chicago office gave employees $6,400 when they killed three bandits who attempted to rob their truck.

The men also received two-week vacations and wrist watches.

Goodspeed said the Boston robbery taught Brink's "an expensive lesson." Everything was tightened up in the company's 87 branches in the United States and Canada.

In Washington, where a semi-underground office was being constructed, floor plans were changed and other security measures taken. The Boston robbery still mystifies the experts. Seven men in Halloween masks went through six locked doors, carried off the cash, and have never been seen since.

Goodspeed has 55 guards under him who make up to 750 scheduled stops in the capital daily in 13 armored trucks.

Each truck is guarded by at least three men and is insured for $10 million.

No one has ever tried to hold up the Washington office or any of its trucks. Goodspeed thinks this is because Washington "is different."

He explains: "No organized gangs, no ward heeler. What's more, this is a federal city. An offense here means you have to reckon with the government."

Goodspeed is a former Navy man who joined Brink's in 1929. He said his business has tripled since the war.

The organization was founded in 1859 by Perry Brink. Its first mode of transportation was a horse and wagon.

The company carried its first payroll 61 years ago. Several years later it dropped its express business and has since devoted itself exclusively to carrying cash for its many customers.

Retired Fat Man Speaks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—I used to be round and firm and fully packed. I used to be able to crowd a one-way street. When I stepped on the scales, they didn't just weigh me. They said "ouch!"

But I was a walking porpoise on purpose. I enjoyed being fat. When I laughed I had twice as much fun as a thin man, because there was so much more of me there ready and able to have a good time.

All this is past. The suits I busted out of yesterday now hang upon me in folds. Where I used to bulge I now sag and wrinkle. I ain't exactly the thin man—but I'm on my way.

Why did I give up the happy, self-satisfied, carefree life of a fat man to join the miserable millions of dieting Americans?

Well, to make a clean breast of it, there were two reasons. First, I was lonely—overwhelmingly lonely. I began to feel I was the only fat man left in the world. I had nothing to talk about because there was nothing wrong with me. I was just stout and happy—but they don't allow that anymore.

The second reason I went on a diet is because of my life insurance company. I just hated to go on worrying them. And they were worrying all right. They began putting ads in the magazines and newspapers saying that fat people don't live as long as not-so-fat people, that fat people don't rally so well from illness.

Have my own theory about that. It is this: Fat people who behave like fat people ought to behave—that is, those who take life slow and easy and one stair at a time—live a long while. But fat people who try to act like thin people die young. It is that simple. One of the reasons a whale lives so long is that it doesn't play tennis.

But my life insurance company kept on putting out these uneasy bulletins against blubber, and finally I began to feel they were pointed at me. I suspected they had a Vice-President-In-Charge-of-Worrying-About-Boyle. Well, who wants to cause a life insurance company all that bother? They wouldn't change their policy—so I changed mine.

I went on a diet, like so many, many millions of people are doing. I took off 17 pounds. It was very easy. Folks like to dream up complicated diets to lose weight. But that is all unnecessary.

The quickest, safest and most healthful way to lose weight is to quit eating what you like and eat all you want of what you don't like. My formula is this: If there is something on your plate that looks good, throw it away. Then eat what is left.

The things I hate most in the world to eat are fish, lamb and fresh vegetables of any kind, so that is what I eat, and—ugh!—I wish I could take it intravenously. I defy anybody to eat enough fish, lamb and fresh vegetables to get fat.

Sloughing off those 17 pounds has made a big change in my life. It is pleasant again to hear the girls whistle at me as I pass by and murmur: "There goes Tiger Man."

I look better and feel better and I know my life insurance company now is relaxing. Secretly, I guess the company is kind of proud of me.

But I do miss the comfortable, solid, sedate feeling that fat gives a fellow. And I am just about as lonely as ever. Because all my friends and enemies want to talk about is diets...diets...diets.

And anybody who can go on talking about fish, lamb, and fresh vegetables is just plain hard up for conversation.

2 Students Killed

ADA, April 7—(AP)—Glenn McPherson, 24, of Beach City (Stark County) and Jose Torres, 20, of Puerto Rico were killed Sunday when their auto collided with a freight train at a crossing near here. Both were students at Ohio Northern University.

Dog-Catching Duties Outlined

COLUMBUS, April 7—(AP)—County commissioners can turn over dog-catching duties to a humane society but they must hold the purse strings.

Ohio Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill's new opinion says a county must first set aside enough money to pay all claims presented for animals killed or dogs injured, and also enough to pay for dog tags and their issuance. That expense is limited to three-tenths of 50 percent of gross receipts of the dog and kennel fund for any year. After commissioners provide for all those expenses, they can give a humane society what they feel is necessary at the end of the year, provided there is more than $2,000 left in the fund. Commissioners can supply the society with vehicles for its work, but can't give them outright.

Patience Lost After 48 Years

YOUNGSTOWN, April 5—(AP)—No one can accuse Emedio Greco, who has been trying to coax his wife, Maria, to come here from Italy, of being headstrong or impatient.

After 48 years, Emedio has quit trying and filed for divorce. Emedio came here from Italy in 1904 to work. Later he went back to Italy to bring his wife and son here. They refused. Greco came back alone. In 1921 he again went back to Italy to bring Maria and the son here. Again they refused. In the meantime Emedio had bought a farm in Italy for the son and had set up a trust fund for him. So, after nearly a half century, Emedio filed for divorce in common pleas court here.

Good Friday Rites Being Observed

NEW YORK, April 7 — (AP)—Observance of Good Friday by both churches and businesses has become steadily more widespread throughout the country.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, releasing the results of a survey, said the number of churches holding special Good Friday services, joining in cooperative services, is growing steadily.

On the business side, the council said, more and more firms are closing completely during the hours when such services usually are held.

Good Friday will be observed as a holiday.

Ohio Schools Offered Trees

Ohio Forestry Association announced today that as a feature of its annual "plant-a-tree" project, a tree for Arbor Day planting is offered to each senior and junior high school in Ohio.

The "plant-a-tree" idea started several years ago and has steadily grown in interest, according to Edward M. Wells of Wilkesville, president of the Ohio Forestry Association.

"It is our hope that every school in Ohio will hold an Arbor Day program," Wells said, "and we are glad to aid in stimulating interest in such an observance by offering high schools a free tree for planting."

Cleric Nabs Thief

CLEVELAND, April 7 — (AP)—When a boy grabbed a purse from one of the members of his congregation Sunday, the Rev. William H. Dudley gave chase and caught the 14-year-old boy with the assistance of two other men. The purse, which belonged to Miss Cora G. Williams, 62, contained $3.50.

Clellan Herd Top Producer

Purebred Ayrshire dairy herd of G. C. Clellan and Sons of Grove City has achieved top recognition during a recent month for outstanding production.

The Clellan producers are credited with averaging 1117 pounds of four percent milk and 45 pounds of butterfat for the respective testing month, which places them among the nation's top Ayrshire herds in the Ayrshire Herd Test Division of five to 15 cows.

BOSTON, April 7.—(AP)—A talented group of young boxers from all corners of the United States and Hawaii started a three-day punchfest Monday for ten National AAU boxing championships in Boston Garden.

Teams representing San Francisco, Hawaii and Philadelphia are favored for the team laurels among the field of 150-odd boxers from 20 sectional associations.

Three entrants are ex-champions. Two — Heavyweight Norvel Lee of Washington, D. C., and Hawaii's bantamweight Ernest De Jesus—will be defending crowns won last year. Eldridge Thompson of Washington topped the light heavyweight title two years ago but is now in the 165-pound division.

Sports Scribe Picks Cards To Win Flag

AP Writer Says
Bums To Be 2nd, Redlegs Sixth

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—The defending champion New York Giants and the powerful Brooklyn Dodgers, in line with most of the experts, will have eyes only for each other this season and that might prove to be the undoing for both clubs.

For, while the Giants and Dodgers are battling each other it is not at all unlikely that Eddie Stanky, freshman St. Louis manager, could steer his dark horse Cardinals past the feuding interborough rivals right into the World Series.

That, at least, is what Joe Reichler, Associated Press sports writer, predicts will happen. So, the ego inflated because of having been fortunate to pick both pennant winners in 1951, as well as six of the last seven National League victors — Dodgers finished second in '50 — Reichler's choice is the Cards who finished third last year, 1½ games behind the Giants.

Reichler picks the order of finish this way:

1. St. Louis
2. Brooklyn
3. Philadelphia
4. New York
5. Boston
6. Cincinnati
7. Pittsburgh
8. Chicago

MEANWHILE, major league hitters are beginning to suspect some one is sabotaging the official league baseballs.

Could it be that some "dead balls," famous in grandpappy's day, have found their way into the usual batch of "rabbit" balls?

Warren Spahn and Ernie Johnson of the Boston Braves are the latest pitchers to lend support to the hitter's belief.

Spahn and Johnson teamed up to pitch the Braves to a 1-0 no-hit victory over the Dodgers in Chattanooga Sunday. The masterpiece, before 9,098 fans, was the third no-hit no-run game of the spring, an unprecedented feat.

From 1939 until this season only five no-hitters were pitched in the Grapefruit League.

Jim Hearn and Monte Kennedy of the New York Giants pitched 1952's first no-hitter, beating the Chicago Cubs, 10-0, on March 17.

Rookie righthander Steve Ridzik of the Philadelphia Phillies pitched the second gem, downing the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0, last Friday.

There hasn't been any official word yet from Manager Luke Sewell, but Herman Wehmeier is beginning to look more and more like the probable opening day pitcher when the Cincinnati Reds start the National League season against the Chicago Cubs.

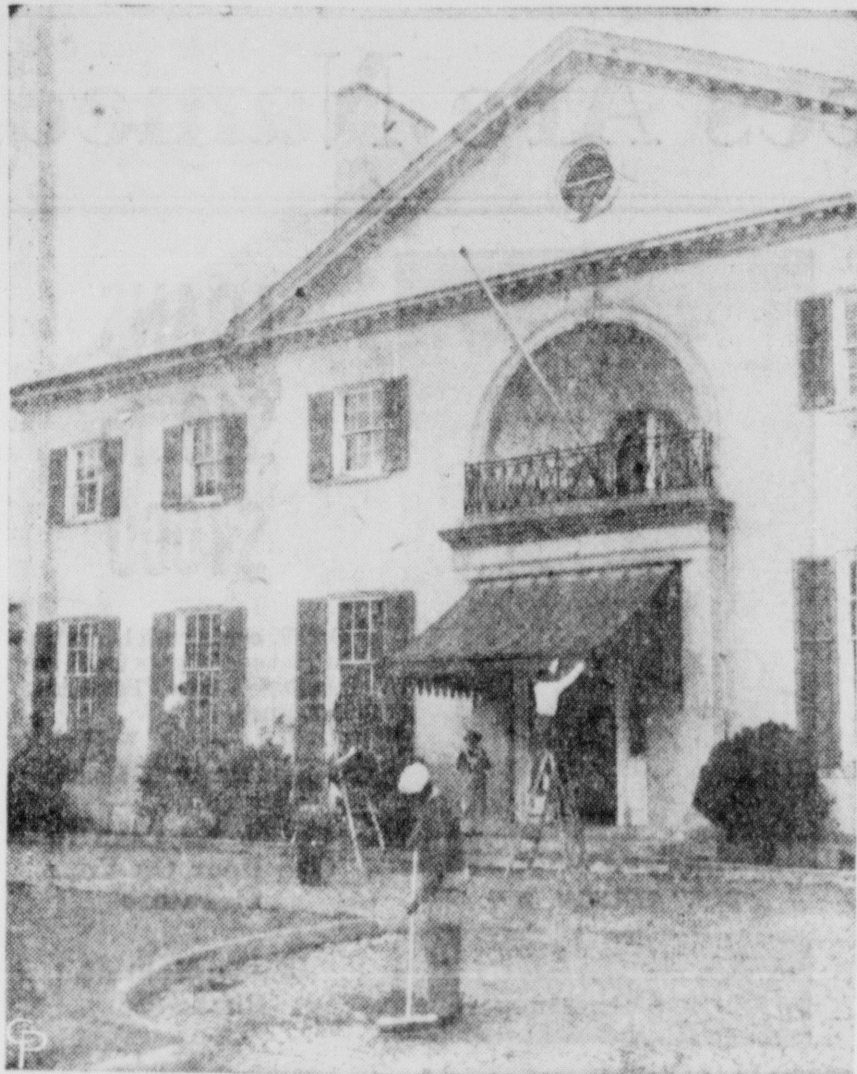

SUNDAY, Wehmeier turned in another excellent hurling job in Charlotte, N. C., as the Redlegs whipped Washington again, 3 to 2.

Wehmeier allowed only two hits (both big fat homers) in six innings. He walked six.

In 45 2-3 innings of exhibition game pitching, the big right hander has yielded 17 runs on 25 hits. He has walked 24, struck out 22.

Wehmeier has gotten away to dismal starts in each of the last two seasons and hasn't been of much value to the Reds until the closing weeks of the campaign.

Big name pitchers don't impress Cleveland Centerfielder Larry Doby—Guys like the Giants' Dave Koslo, Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie.

WASHINGTON WORKMEN are putting finishing touches on the renovation of the Japanese embassy in the U. S. capital. The embassy will be turned back to the Japs when the peace treaty becomes official about April 15. It has been ratified by the Senate. (International) claiming strip mine land. Breeding formerly was with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in New Hampshire. He succeeds John Crowl. The association is an organization of 115 strip mine operators. It claims to have returned more than 16,000 acres to productivity since its organization in 1945.

Sokolsky's These Days

The case of Governor Warren is different. He came into the Wisconsin Republican Primary and established that he can get a large Democratic vote.

How much of that vote was for Eisenhower and how much for Warren will never be known, but politically it is a Warren credit and places him in position to be a candidate for Vice-President, an alternative candidate for President in the event of a deadlock, or a member of the Cabinet should a Republican be elected.

The large write-in votes in several states may ultimately destroy the institution of the primary because it alters its nature from a party operation to a general election.

It also puts upon the party the pressure of money corruption in the primaries, which will sooner or later be exposed to every candidate's detriment. A way will be found to uncover the unbelievably huge expenditures in these primaries, most of which are indirect and secret.

The day will come when the cost of this operation will become a public scandal. Every write-in is an organized, directed effort like the advertising scheme of using box-tops.

In fact, one of the reasons that there are so few candidates in a country so rich in suitable personalities is that it costs too much to run.

The candidate has to become a beggar among the rich or the labor

Then it was confiscated by Clair E. Kirk of the Board of Equalization liquor control division, who remarked: A still's still a still.

IRONTON, April 7.—(P)—For weeks a state liquor agent visited the back room of the Hickory Club Restaurant in nearby North Kenova, posing as a whisky-drinking card-playing rake.

The payoff came early Sunday. A 10-man squad of liquor agents raided the place as an alleged bootleg joint. They took eight persons to Lawrence County jail and said they would file charges later. The agents said they found whisky flowing freely and dice and blackjack games in full swing.
